

Diana Tremblay
Vice President, Global Business Services

Diana Tremblay is General Motors' vice president of Global Business Services, effective July 1, 2013. In this role, she manages a team of thousands of employees across the globe charged with streamlining GM business processes to improve service quality, reduce complexity and save money.

Prior to this role, Tremblay was General Motors' vice president of North America Manufacturing. She had responsibility for 56 facilities in North America. These plants included assembly, stamping, powertrain and component operations which worked together to produce some of GM's most popular vehicles, such as the Chevrolet Volt, Buick Enclave, GMC Sierra and the Cadillac ATS. In 2011, she led the implementation of over $3.6 billion of investment in U.S. manufacturing plants, creating or retaining nearly 10,000 jobs.

She was named vice president, Manufacturing and Labor Relations in December 2009. Previously, she served as GM North America vice president of labor relations beginning in January 2006 where GM negotiated an historic labor agreement. Prior to that, she held various positions in labor relations and manufacturing, including global positions in Luton, England and Antwerp, Belgium. Diana began work with GM at Central Foundry in Defiance, Ohio in 1977.

Diana holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Industrial Administration from Kettering University and, as a Sloan Fellow, received a Master of Science Degree in Management from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Diana has a strong passion for leadership. She has been featured in Fast Company's 30-second MBA series, and has shared her views on leadership in the Wall Street Journal and Forbes. In 2013, Diana received the Frost & Sullivan Manufacturing Leader of the Year award. Diana was named one of the "100 Leading Women in the North American Auto Industry" by Automotive News, in 2010 and 2015.

She serves as a member of the Board of Itron, serves as chair of the Board of inForum, and she serves as chair of the Kettering University Board of Trustees.

Diana and her husband, Daniel, have been married for 35 years. They have one daughter, Lisa.
