

Bio for Inforum- women on the move

Pamela English- Global Speaker, Trainer and Consultant

Pamela inspires and educates audiences enriching their lives personally and professionally. She has both corporate and entrepreneurial experience. Fun fact- Her mother gave her a clothing store to manage to help her pay the bills during her college days at Michigan State University. This was an invaluable learning experience and quite the juggling act. Since college she has had a thriving career in sales and training now Pamela is once again pursuing her passion as a professional speaker.

Whether she is speaking to 10 or 3,000 people in the US or somewhere else in the world Pamela will motivate you to

Do more, Be more and Sell more.

Pamela is currently a contract speaker for corporations who want her expertise and fresh perspective hiring her to teach their training programs.

Some of her past experience -

Amway - Global sales trainer (Asia, Europe and North America).

Taught distributors how to build their business and increase sales.

Educated affiliate trainers on product knowledge and gave them tangible skills to use for more engaging sales presentations.

Communispond - Facilitator, Executive Presentation Skills

Increased executives confidence and credibility by giving them multiple tools/skills to create more effective presentations.

Owned a Seminar and Consulting firm- Seminars to wide variety of corporations teaching men/women how to increase their perceived credibility by having an appropriate and consistent professional image, executive presence, and other soft skills.

Cruise ship speaker - variety of fun topics

Member National Speaker Association